

BALGAST CHRONICLES

THE AWAKENING

HeroQuest is a trademark of the Hasbro - Games Workshop Inc.
All rights reserved.

This product was created for the sole purpose
didactic and does not intend to harm in a direct or indirect way copyright rights related to the ownership of the trademark.
Any publication or dissemination is prohibited.

RINNEGATI.NET
CREATORI DI MONDI FANTASTICI

HEROQUEST

BALGAST CHRONICLES

THE AWAKENING

Product made by MONDOR
Copyright 1989 Milton Bradley Ltd. & Game Workshop.
Icons and businesses recreated with Heroscribe.
Graphic project for recreational purposes only,
edited by MONDOR for Rinnegati.net
Every publication or for-profit is forbidden.

Genesis

"During a stormy night, while the sky was torn by bloody flashes of lightning, the wizard Tuqr was on the mountain as indicated by an ancient parchment.

Despite an impetuous wind, he tried to stop it and the rain whipped violently, he managed to climb the hill and found himself in a small clearing surrounded by rock ridges. He placed a carpet in front of him and laid some objects on it, so he grab the parchment and with an impious voice, he began the litany.

What followed did not make him tremble, not he wavered in his intent, but his eyes saw the beast for the first time.

It was as big as a mountain, covered with scales, with legs ending in claws: now he stretched out his arms to hit him and he backed away at the same time. His body ended in a long tail similar to that of the lions, all covered at the bottom by hairs. He made horrible grimaces and laughed as if he already had his fate described before him ..

Tuqr took the word .. O Lord of Darkness I invoked you. Give me your powers !!

The creature screamed fiercely and lightning slashed the horizon hitting the rock ..

Obtaining that deal, Tuqr had conquered the maximum power, that it he accompanied for centuries.

At the death of the Sorcerer many have tried to dominate the power of relics unnecessarily.

Generations after generations the power became legend and the relics disappeared ... until today ..."

"Their bodies are tried, their minds tired, yet it was only the beginning of adventure, and they knew it well! In the cold night lit by the full moon, they heard first the wind rise with a gloomy whisper, then a roar and an intense smell of burnt sulfur, in the end they saw the 'Beast and they understood that from that moment everything would have changed .."